Subject: Accredited status of National University of Computer and Emerging Sciences

It is certified that that National University of Computer and Emerging Sciences is an accredited and chartered university of Pakistan and has been established under Ordinance No. XXIII of 2000 of the Government of Pakistan. Accordingly, the degrees/diplomas/certificates awarded by the University are recognized by the Higher Education Commission (formerly University Grants Commission) and Government of Pakistan as equivalent to corresponding degrees/diplomas/certificates of other universities of Pakistan. The holders of degrees from the University are entitled to the same rights and privileges (e.g. eligibility for various posts/admission to various courses etc) as are available to those qualifying from other universities of Pakistan.

For a list of accredited universities of Pakistan, you may also like to verify from the UGC's web site www.ugc.edu.pk or www.hec.gov.pk
